Little Dormice and Dormice have been working on their balance skills in yoga again.

Fallow Deer have been learning about healthy eating in science this week.

Woodpeckers have been working with Helen Haraldsen, a children's author. They've been helping her to choose a book title, write a blurb and design a front cover for her new book due to be published in the summer. She has been blown away by their work and wants to use some of their ideas in her book launch. They will be taking part in a zoom session with her very soon as she wants to meet everyone who has worked so hard. Woodpeckers cannot wait to meet her and find out which title she has chosen!

Red squirrels have been making boats in science which will be streamlined to use the effects of water resistance to allow their boats to move through water quickly.
